

How to Cite NEMS

We are extremely happy that researchers and practitioners are using the NEMS tools for research and community action as that was the intent on releasing the tools publicly and providing training and support. We hope in turn those who do use NEMS as a basis for their work will credit NEMS when appropriate.

Also, if you are writing an article for publication, we strongly encourage you to include NEMS as a key word, in the abstract or title. This will help others locate and identify NEMS related publications when conducting literature searches.

For clarity, we have listed in the table below of how NEMS should be credited. If you should have any questions about crediting NEMS during a presentation or written publication, please contact us at nems@zimbra.upenn.edu

Use of NEMS	How to Cite and/or Credit
No changes to the NEMS-S or NEMS-R tools	Cite AJPM article for the specific tool used*
Modified either the NEMS-S or NEMS-R tools	Cite AJPM article for the specific tool used*
Used another group's NEMS modified tool with or without making changes	Cite AJPM article and also mention the specific group whose tool you modified
Got ideas from NEMS for your work	Cite website or training manual
For presentations	Cite using abbreviated version: NEMS-S Glanz et al., AJPM, 32(4) or NEMS-R Saelens et al., AJPM, 32(4) Cite website
