

The Parkinson's Disease and Movement Disorders Center

Since 1982, The Parkinson's Disease and Movement Disorders Center (PD&MDC) of the University of Pennsylvania Health System at Pennsylvania Hospital has been offering the most comprehensive treatment to PD and Movement Disorder patients in the Delaware Valley. Movement Disorder specialists include; Howard Hurtig, MD, Matthew Stern, MD, Amy Colcher, MD, Andrew Siderowf, MD, Stacy Horn, DO and Nabila Dahodwala, MD who have the latest information on pharmacological, surgical and ancillary treatment for PD. In addition to medical care the Center offers a psychological services program for those in need of counseling and a large support group network. The PD&MDC staff work closely with the Dan Aaron Rehabilitation Center, which provides specialized therapy to PD patients. Research on new treatments to alleviate primary and secondary symptoms of PD as well as modify disease progression is a vital mission of the Center. The PD&MDC is a National Parkinson Foundation Center of Excellence since 1992 and works closely with The Parkinson Council, the local chapter of the NPF.

Program

9:30 am Registration and Continental Breakfast

10:00 am Meeting Start

This year we are offering a different type of meeting. There will be no formal presentation. Instead physicians and nurses from the PD&MDC and PADRECC will offer short presentations and take questions at your table. Each staff person will have a different topic and will rotate around the room. Some of the topics to be discussed are: constipation, sleep disorders, vision problems, blood pressure dysregulation, pain and urinary problems to name a few. Please come prepared with questions. We think this informal setting will give participants a chance to hear directly from experts in the field. Lunch will be served afterward.

12:30 pm Lunch:
Grilled chicken breast, salad and dessert.
There will be a vegetarian option.
Please note on response card.
