This blog is a forum for discovery, engagement, and learning - a way for all of us to be on the same "page" in terms of professionalism. Through each individual post and Jody's response, we learn together. However, not all questions are appropriate for the blog.

Please contact Jody directly if:

- You cannot ask the question without revealing your identity (if you choose to be anonymous) or someone else's
- Your question may require a response from the legal team
- You would like a response right away (blog responses generally have a 24-48 hour turnaround time)
