

INTERESTED IN GLOBAL HEALTH?

The Center for Global Health is looking for 6 students to join an interdisciplinary team that will virtually compete in the 2023 International Emory Global Health Case Competition

The International Emory Global Health Case Competition brings together students from multiple disciplines to address a critical global health challenge in both a competitive and collaborative environment. The competition culminates with presentations to an expert panel of judges, which evaluates the proposals and determines award winners. Winning presentations are typically those that present astutely synthesized, feasible, sustainable, and culturally appropriate solutions to the case problems.

WHEN/WHERE

- March 10-18, 2023 at Emory University in Atlanta, GA
- Emory provides food, lodging & ground transportation from the airport to the hotel and conference center.
- CGH will offer up to $250 of support for the airfare.

BENEFITS

- Fun & rewarding opportunity to put your global health knowledge into practice
- Meet & collaborate with scholars in other disciplines
- Prize Amounts: 1st place $6000; 2nd place $4000; 3rd place $3000

EXPECTATIONS

- Commitment to team meetings leading up to and during the competition
- Team members should recognize that the competition takes a lot of work to do well!

To apply, send your CV & statement of interest (500 words max) to maria.hering@pennterms.upenn.edu by January 27, 2023