Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery Residency

Moonlighting Policy

Revised 2-15-21

Introduction

During residency training, the resident's main duty is to obtain the knowledge and technical skills in the specialty of oral and maxillofacial surgery.

In order to ensure high standards in the training of residents, there must be a proper combination of patient care experiences, didactic curriculum and research involvement as part of the practice of the University of Pennsylvania Health System, Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery Department.

Scope

This policy applies to all residents of the The University of Pennsylvania, Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery Residency Program and includes internal and external moonlighting.

Policy

The University of Pennsylvania, Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery Residency Program is a comprehensive program that emphasizes these components with compliance to duty hour restrictions. In consideration of these factors, both internal and external moonlighting are prohibited.
